

ART HALL FUND GIVEN CHICAGO U.

Max Epstein, Manufacturer,
Offers $1,000,000 Fund for Erection of Building.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, September 21.—A million-dollar fund for the erection of a gothic towers and ivied walls of the University of Chicago.

Destined for a shrine of culture and a center of artistic education in the Middle West, the hall will be the gift to the university of Max Epstein, manufacturer and philanthropist, and the donor of the Epstein Dispensary and social hall at the midway institution.

The gift was announced today by Dr. Robert Maynard Hutchins, new president of the university, in his first public announcement since assuming the direction of the institution. Dr. Hutchins saw in the fund a new impulse in the artistic life of the West, promising a great development in popular interest and education in art. Besides housing undergraduate and graduate classes in art, collections of old masters and more recent works of art, the art building will contain laboratories and lecture rooms, a library and exhibition halls. It was Mr. Epstein's hope that the institute might have a broader influence, too, through printed bulletins, lectures broadcast by radio and public exhibitions.

Leader Among Philanthropists.

The million-dollar fund was the largest gift made by Mr. Epstein, who came to Chicago in 1891, when his principal asset was a bachelor of arts degree from the College of the City of New York. Since then he has risen to the chairmanship of the General American Tank Car Corporation and an eminence among American philanthropists.

The entire sum he planned to spend for the art building. He directed that it be administered by a special board of trustees composed of Chicago men and women.

Urges Appreciation of Art.

Reviewing the noteworthy achievements of the university in the fields of medicine and science, Mr. Epstein in his letter of presentation said the university should devote itself with the same zeal to another important field, "namely, art; that record and expression in form and color of the history of humanity. I believe the University of Chicago should offer to the young men and women who are its students and to the public the opportunity of learning the significance of art, both as a history of the past and as a living and inspiring force in the present. The creation of an art center at the university will bring together a body of teachers and students of art and will result in the spreading of sincere and informed appreciation of art."

PLAN ART EXHIBIT.

Work of Clara Hill and Benson Moore to Be Shown.

An exhibition of the work of Clara Hill, Washington sculptor, will be held next Sunday at the Hill School of Art, 6 Dupont Circle. In addition to Miss Hill's sculpture there will be shown landscapes and etchings by Benson Moore of this city.

Among the pieces exhibited by Miss Hill will be a portrait bust of Clinton Grove, son of Mrs. Emmons Smith, Jr.; a portrait bust of S. S. McClure, New York publisher, and a bas relief of Col. William Curry Harlee. Miss Dorothy Walker, secretary of the school, will exhibit examples of modern design.

Munster County, Ireland, had a bumper crop of mushrooms this year and large crowds gathered early every morning to pick them.

SAYS HE SPENT TWO THOUSAND FOR MEDICINE

Washington Man Now
Regrets That He Did Not Learn of the Herb
Extract Sooner

"Miller's Herb Extract is one medicine that I will always praise as I know it was the sole means of restoring my wife to health after she had suffered for years, during which time I spent over two thousand dollars for medicine."

MR. A. V. WEAVER

This amazing statement was made a few days ago by Mr. A. V. Weaver, 1627 33d Street N.W., City. Continuing, Mr. Weaver who has lived in Washington for a number of years, said, "Yes, my wife was in a bad shape and I was continually paying out money for medicines that did not help her at all. Some time ago she was operated on and after that her health was very bad. No matter what she ate she complained of her stomach hurting and I have seen her suffer for hours when the pain was so severe she could hardly bear it. She complained of pains in the side and back, kidneys acted irregular, very painful and, due to chronic constipation, even strong laxatives would not act for days at a time, she was underweight and looked so bad I worried about her until I was almost sick myself. She tried everything we heard of, but Miller's Herb Extract (formerly called Herb Juice) was the first medicine that made any improvement, and I only wish we had tried it sooner. She has now used three bottles and does not look like the same person, has gained about thirty pounds, and my but it is wonderful to see her improving every day. All the old pains and aches are gone, this medicine has regulated her entire system and she is now able to sleep all night without getting up at all hours. It is almost impossible for me to explain how much this Herb Extract (formerly called Herb Juice) has helped my wife, but one thing sure, if any one doubts its merits I will be glad to have them call on me, as I can give them facts that would be surprising."

If you feel in need of this medicine don't experiment with something supposed to be just as good, go to the Peoples Drug Store, 503 7th Street N.W., talk to the man who is there for the sole purpose of explaining Miller's Herb Extract (formerly called Herb Juice) and learn why it is the choice of hundreds of thousands. His hours are 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Department Census Shows 46 Per Cent Disabled Veterans Here Are Employed

Forty-six per cent of the disabled World War veterans of Washington are employed, it is revealed in an employment census taken here by the District department of the Disabled American Veterans.

Questionnaires sent out during the past week by the D. A. V. show that of the men employed, 69 per cent are dissatisfied with their jobs, one-half of 1 per cent were in business for themselves, more than 21 per cent were employed by the Government, the average income of all those working was $1,502.74 per year and the average disability was 68 per cent according to the schedules of the Veterans' Bureau.

The unusually heavy list of unemployed is due, according to the D. A. V. officials who conducted the census, to the fact that questionnaires were sent to the veterans in the hospitals as well as to those who are not receiving hospital treatment.

Work of gathering the data has been conducted by Claude Babcock, commander of the District department, and George W. Phillips, executive secretary.

FRENCHMAN DECRIES SCARCITY OF VISITORS

Deputy Says Country Should Attract
More to Attract Tourists.

PARIS, (N.A.N.A.).—Deputy Louis Proust has been lamenting that France has not had nearly as many visitors as she should this year. The foreign tourist (though Paris always seems full of him) must be encouraged more, France, says M. Proust, does not advertise herself enough.

M. Proust. An expert has discovered that Paris has an average of 46 days of fog a year to London's 41 and New York's 15. Let the fog-hunter try Paris and strike, if he be lucky, the five extra days that she can show London!

M. Proust is calling on the government to get more visitors. If he and his fellow Deputies want to call at any very great length, however, they may have to resort to soap-box oratory at Hyde Park after the holidays, for the President is said to be thinking of a way to cut them short in the Chamber.

When a deputy has occupied the elevation of the "tribune" (from which he makes his speech) long enough, in the President's opinion, he is reminded of it by the lighting of small electric bulbs in front of him, operated when the President presses a button. But it is so easy for the speaker to cover up the light with his papers and persistently fail to see the signal that the President may think well to stop him by the Belgian method of violence—an electric bell.

Not only is the Frenchman failing to advertise France adequately; he is failing to avail himself of her produce. He is being exhorted to eat more fruit. His grapes are having to be turned into wine almost entirely, and his rosy peaches are being offered him in barrow loads at a few cents a pound, in vain.

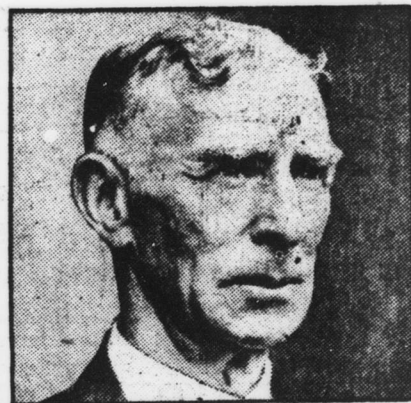

The minister of hygiene has, therefore, thought it necessary to open an exhibition to show the naughty Frenchman how to preserve for the Winter the fruit he so woefully neglects in Summer; how to bottle it, make jam and jelly of it, liquors and sirups, and generally to put France's own vitamins at least safely in his cupboard.
